Some three years since I was attacked with great nervous debility, which was soon followed by palpitation of the heart, of the most severe and prostrating character. At the expiration of six months, I was reduced to a mere skelleton, and was satisfied if relief did not soon come, I must pasaway. Two physicians attended me a good portion of the time, but their efforts to afford relies are of no avail. Finally one of them suggesfimd a trial of the "Sherry Wine Bitters," and, to, tey great satisfaction, their effects upon me were most beneficial from the start. Leep the blood healthy, and all is well; but with this pabulum of life disordered, there can be no lasting health. Sooner or later something must go wrong, and the great machinery of life is disordered or overthrown.

Sarsaparilla has, and deserves much, the reputation of accomplishing these ends. But the world has been egregiously deceived by preparations of it, partly because the drug alone has not all the virtue that is claimed for it, but more because many preparations, pretending to be concentrated extracts of it, contain but little of the virtue of Sarsaparilla, or any thing else. r any thing else.
